

FREE LECTURE

Latinos in the Civil War: A Maryland Perspective With Marta Kelly

Marta Cruz Kelly is the current
Chief of Interpretation and Education for the National Park Service.

Image Courtesy of the U.S. Army

Municipal Pool Room
9th and Main Streets
March 14, 2013
7pm
Refreshments Provided!

Cuban immigrant, Loreta Janeta Velazquez detailed the particulars of her involvement in the Confederate Army. She enlisted against the wishes of her husband (a soldier) under the guise of a man, and fought in numerous battles as “Lieutenant Harry Buford”. The particulars of her death were, until recently, shrouded in mystery. New evidence indicates that she died and was buried in Maryland. Join us for an evening of learning, together we will explore the little known narrative of Latinos in the Civil War, and their invaluable contributions to both sides of the line.

On Display February—December 2013
Stationed in Laurel: Our Civil War Story

817 Main Street, Laurel, MD 20707
www.laurelhistoricalsociety.org
info@laurelhistoricalsociety.org

Sponsored by
Maryland Milestones/
ATHA Inc

