Civic engagement is all about making your community a better place! Simple things that you do everyday - like shopping local and recycling - can have a big impact on the economy and environment of Laurel.

Dr. Alexander Chan, 4-H Youth Development Educator for the University of Maryland Extension Office in Prince George's County, will discuss how 4-H increases community involvement and teach attendees how to turn those pesky plastic grocery bags into a durable re-usable bag using crochet.

Materials supplied by LHS. Families and 4-H members welcomed! This event is free and open to the public. Light refreshments with local farm samples.

With suggested donation for non-members: $2
